साहित्य संगीत कला विहीनः साक्षात् पशुः पुच्छ विषाण हीनः

(The man without (love of) literature, music or the arts is indeed an animal without a tail or horns.)

The essence of Sanskrit Shloka cited above is that a man is like an animal without active indulgence in one or the other form of performing arts, for it helps in internal development of a human being in addition to providing an avenue for exiting career options. Under the active guidance of experienced gurus, the society of Performing Arts provides a platform to young budding artists to move swiftly from foundation level to specialized forms of performing arts.
